NPA Recognizes Outstanding Contributions to the Natural Products Industry

Award Winners Celebrated at The Big Natural, June 9th in Las Vegas

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Natural Products Association (NPA) today announced winners of the 24th Annual NPA Awards, honoring outstanding individuals in government and businesses that have made valuable contributions to the success of the natural products industry. The awards will be handed out during NPA’s The Big Natural on June 9th at 8:00 am at the Linq Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada.

“The Big Natural is the premier event for the industry and we’re proud to honor the best and the brightest people who have contribute to its success over the past year,” said Daniel Fabricant, Ph.D., NPA Executive Director and CEO. “We look forward to continuing to support and collaborate with leaders in government and business who strive to further the growth of and access to natural products for consumers.”

The winners of the 2017 NPA Awards include:

President’s Award
Roxanne Green
The President’s Award recognizes an individual who has made long-term contributions or a one-time, significant impact to the natural products industry. Roxanne Green has spent more than 34 years as a member-owner/staff of PCC Natural Markets in the Seattle area. During her tenure at PCC she has worked within many departments, was an assistant store manager, and served on the team opening new stores. Her passion led her to coordinate the HBC department where she currently mentors and educates both staff and loyal customers while maintaining pro-active vendor relations. Currently she is the HBC Coordinator at the Redmond store, part of their management team, and is one of the main ingredients screeners for PCC’s personal care products. She has served on the NPA NW board for 11 years, four as the president. She has served on the NPA National board for 10 years, two as President.

Lifetime Achievement Award
Charles McClain “Mac” Haddow and John Haddow
The Lifetime Achievement Award is bestowed to a pioneer in the natural products industry. The Haddow brothers are receiving this award for their perseverance in assisting with the passage of DSHEA, which was instrumental to the industry. Mac and John Haddow are partners at Upstream Consulting, a government relations, public affairs, and management consulting firm in Washington, DC.
Charles McClain “Mac” worked as the chief-of staff at the U.S. Department of Health and Human services. Mac led the internal review of the FDA initiative to regulate dietary supplements that reined in the cooperation by FDA with then Senator Roth to impose stiff regulations on the natural products industry. John Haddow has been a veteran of the Washington political scene for over four decades, serving as a legislative director in the U.S. Senate and handling a wide variety of issues ranging from human resources to foreign policy and tax questions. As a key congressional staffer, Haddow was actively involved in formulating key legislation at both the personal office and committee staff levels.

Industry Champion Award

Senator Orrin Hatch (R-UT)

The Industry Champion Award recognizes individuals who have made notable contributions to the natural products industry above and beyond commercial success. Now in his seventh term as Utah's senator, Orrin Hatch is the most senior Republican in the Senate. Senator Hatch credits his personal health to his daily nutritional supplements, leading him to be an advocate to the natural and dietary supplement industry. He played a key role in the passing of DSHEA and in 2016 introduced legislation to expand Health Savings Accounts and Flexible Spending Accounts to include dietary and nutritional supplements. Most recently Senator Hatch has continued to support the industry by focusing his efforts on keeping vinpocetine on the market.
